CHRISTIAN AUDIO-VISUAL CENTER GROUND-BREAKING

With the news from RAVEMMCO that $62,950 of the needed $75,000 had been pledged by mission boards the last obstacle to beginning the projected two-story Christian Audio-visual Center in Tokyo was cleared away. Ground adjoining Aoyama Gakuin has been provided by that Christian school which in return will receive the use free of one large room in the building. Blueprints are ready and negotiations with contractors have been begun.

Ground-breaking ceremonies are now scheduled to be held at the lot on March 24 at 12:30 p.m. Representative leaders of the Kyodan (Church of Christ in Japan), Lutheran Church, Episcopalian Church and others will participate. The building will require about six months to complete.

The purpose of this new center will be to serve all the Christian churches and organizations of Japan in the various areas of audio-visual aids and mass communications. The present work of AVACO will be continued on an enlarged basis but special emphasis will be put on the training of Christian leaders in radio, TV, and audio-visual aids through workshops and classes. This program will be carried out in cooperation with Aoyama Gakuin and other Christian schools and organizations.

In the center there will be a large studio auditorium, thirty-four by forty-five feet, suitable for radio or TV programs requiring an audience, or for workshops, conferences or film-viewing. In addition, there will be two smaller studios for making records, recording of radio broadcasts or for direct broadcasting through any Tokyo station by remote.

There is also space provided for committee meetings or smaller consultations, the film rental library, offices, and adequate work space for the production of films, film strips, records, kamishibai (the Japanese picture stories), etc.

From this center the Audio-visual Aids Committee will continue to reach out through all Japan, holding workshops in various areas sending radio programs to key stations, and films and film strips to all parts of the country. AVACO leaders will also be lecturing on A-V aids at Aoyama and other schools.

AVACO PLANS AHEAD

Aside from the A-V Center and its regular program the Audio-visual Aids Commission has planned the following during the rest of this year:

No. 33 - February 15, 1954

1. To produce several films in black and white and color on various Bible stories. The first of these, shot on February 13 in black and white, is an experimental film on the parable of the soils, and is a filming of the story as told through the "Ebanashi", a distinctive Japanese story-telling device akin to the flannel-graph. A special committee is at work planning these films.
2. To publish a book of Christian plays for churches and schools.
3. To conduct a three month training course for Christian actors, actresses and writers beginning from April.
4. A Film Evaluation Committee has been set up to evaluate Japanese and foreign films, film strips and slides which will meet monthly.
5. A special committee has been set up to prepare filmstrips and kamishibai on the history of Christianity in Japan in preparation for the Centenary Celebration of the 100th year of Christian evangelism in Japan to be held in 1959.
6. To publish a quarterly magazine on audio-visual aids in Japanese to begin publication in April.

YOUTH LEADERS CONFER AT KATASE JAN. 26-28

A national "Youth Week" will be observed from May 23-30 as a result of plans made at the Katase Conference of the NCC Youth Commission and representatives of the NCC member denominations. The theme of the Youth Week will be the same as that of the Evanston Conference: "Christ, the Hope of the World", but each denomination will plan its own program.

The Caravans will last several weeks each, and will travel all over the country while the members preach, confer with church youth and assist in Sunday Schools, church youth work and other similar activities.

Student evangelism will be emphasized during the coming year, and will be abetted by a Student leaders conference in the near future. A Study commission was appointed to devise better ways of helping the post-college group of young people through the churches.

MAYER MEMORIAL CHURCH DEDICATED

The Mayer Memorial Church in Adachi-ku was dedicated on Feb. 2. The church is in the midst of one of the worst slum areas in Tokyo, but Christian work there has been making a steady impression on the area, so that the atmosphere on the street around the church is gradually improving. Although the district abounds with juvenile delinquents, the Church Sunday School boys and girls are busy raising money to help build a kindergarten building.

The church itself was build as a result of a $6,600 grant from the Evangelical United Brethren Board, and was named in honor of Dr. Paul S. Mayer, an EUB missionary who has been working in Japan since 1908.
